Trace Oil Influence to Anderson

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Washington Post reported in its Thursday editions that just before Robert B. Anderson became secretary of the Treasury in 1957, he completed a deal with oil men designed to pay him nearly $1 million.

Some $270,000 of this was scheduled to be paid during his term of office in the Eisenhower administration, the Post said, and his chances of receiving some $450,000 of it depended in part on the price of oil.

According to the copyright story by Bernard D. Nossiter, one version of the transaction was that it was initiated to enable Anderson to replace Vice President Richard M. Nixon on the 1956 Republican ticket.

The Post quoted Anderson as saying in an interview the arrangement was an "ordinary, normal" affair in which he sold an interest in oil leases which he had received in return for finding a driller to explore for oil. The Post said Anderson declined to say if he was being considered for the vice presidency.

As Treasury secretary, Anderson was one of six Cabinet officials who served on a new Special Committee to Investigate Crude Oil Imports. President Eisenhower adopted the committee's report urging establishment of a mandatory system of import quotas. The quota system, which is still in effect, limits the import of foreign oil.

The newspaper quoted Anderson as telling an interviewer:

"I sat on a committee which was an advisory committee. The President and the Senate (Finance) committee had full knowledge of my interests.

"I can't believe people would say you had more influence than anybody else on a committee. The people who could explain or confirm this are all dead. If I'm to be criticized for not remembering things 12 years later, I'm sorry. Too many things have happened."

The Post said Anderson told the paper he never got the full $900,000 for which he contracted. Its account said records indicated he got about $290,000.

Anderson is out of the country this week, his New York office said, and could not be reached directly for comment on the Post story.

NEW OIL BILL

contain it?" he added.

He referred to a fear that the European Common Market might retaliate, perhaps by imposing heavy duties on American soybeans, should Congress approve textile import quotas proposed by the Ways and Means Committee.

Ways and Means proposed Tuesday quotas be established on textile articles and shoes. The committee plan would allow the president to order quotas on other imports deemed to threaten U.S. industries.

The committee's language on oil imports requires that only quotas be used in control of imports under the national security legislation, leaving the president free to determine the level of quotas.

A Cabinet committee, in a split decision, had recommended President Nixon shift to a tariff system for oil. Nixon has kept the matter under advisement, ordering studies by another group.

In another decision Wednesday, the committee gave the president authority to increase imports of articles, despite quotas, when he finds the supply insufficient to meet U.S. demand at reasonable prices.

Miniskirts Cleared for 'Waves'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The head of Air Force women has decreed that WAFs "with the configuration to justify it" may wear skirts two inches above the knee.

Col. Jeanne Holm, director of the Women of the Air Force, has drafted an order allowing shorter uniform skirts "in keeping with the requirements of good taste and the dictates of fashion, with due regard for the dignity of the uniform of the United States Air Force and the individuals own configuration."

Normally, Col. Holm said, skirts should be right around the top of the knee or not more than an inch above.

6 Firms Are Sued on Pollution

By MARK BROWN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department has given the go-ahead, under guidelines criticized as too restrictive by members of Congress, to anti-pollution suits against six firms and a municipality.

U.S. attorneys will be authorized to invoke the Refuse Act of 1899 against five polluters in Bridgeport, Conn., the city of Bridgeport and a chemical firm in Cleveland, Ohio, a Justice Department source said Wednesday.

He would not name the firms.

Injunctions, rather than criminal penalties of up to $2,500 in fines and one year in prison, will be sought because the department believes "the injunctions are the things that will help the environment, not the fines," the source said.

The approval for the suits came as Rep. Richard Ottinger, D-N.Y., threatened to take legal action against the Justice Department unless it began enforcing the 71-year-old Refuse Act.

The law prohibits dumping "any refuse matter of any kind or description" into navigable waters or their tributaries. The only exemption is sewage.

The source of Ottinger's ire, and that of a number of conservation groups backing him in the threatened action, is a set of guidelines for use of the statute sent out June 15 by the Justice Department to all U.S. attorneys.

The guidelines prohibit the attorneys from taking action against polluters without department approval if the polluter is involved in proceedings with the Federal Water Quality Administration or state or local water pollution control agencies, and if the polluter is a state, county, city or other political subdivision.

In a statement of policy accompanying the guidelines, the department said the Refuse Act should not be used "in competition with the Federal Water Pollution Control Act or with state pollution abatement procedures."

The statement said the attorneys could initiate court action against "discharges, which are accidental or infrequent, but which are not of a continuing nature resulting from the ordinary operations of a manufacturing plant.

"Discharges of this last type, of course, pose the greatest are trying to preserve."

Javits said the current rash of bombings may well subside with the end of the Vietnam war, adding, "All too often we have adopted laws that were right and proper at the time but have returned to haunt us when the immediate problem no longer exists."

Will Wilson, an assistant attorney general, told the House Judiciary Committee the Nixon administration has formed a Cabinet-level task force to respond to the recent plague of bombings and may change course—from punitive measures toward an endorsement of strict regulation and licensing.

A bill with that goal has been introduced by Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., Judiciary Committee chairman.

The Senate Investigations subcommittee was told the scope of recent bombings—particularly on college campuses—is far greater than most officials had believed.

Eugene T. Rossides, assistant secretary of the treasury, said reports from state and local police indicate there were at least 4,330 bombings—both explosive and incendiary—1,475 attempted bombings and 35,129 bomb threats in the 16-month period beginning Jan. 1, 1969.

He said bombs killed 40 persons, injured 384 others and caused more than $21.8 million in property damage.

Wilson told the House panel that in the last 12 months bombs caused $612,000 in damage to federal buildings alone.

But he said a far greater loss —estimated at $2.2 million—occurred from time lost on 130 occasions when federal employes were forced to evacuate buildings because of bomb threats.

Rossides said his statistics indicate that 56 per cent of bombings in which the perpetrators were identified by police can be traced to campus disturbances.

S. Vietnames Pull Out at UN

By WILLIAM N. OATIS
Associated Press Writer

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — South Vietnamese delegates angrily withdrew Wednesday from the World Youth Assembly, charging Communist disruption, "fascist maneuvers" and brutal behavior by U.N. employes.

The Vietnamese delegates charged in a letter to Chairman Lars Thalen of Sweden that:

—They had been prevented from speaking by a "permanent campaign of unruly disruption" by Communist delegations.

—Their interpreter, Tran Khanh Van, was "collared and nearly strangled" by five U.N. guards for merely interpreting their request to take the floor in the World Peace Commission Tuesday.

—They had been subjected to "fascist maneuvers," "racial bias" and "the brutal behavior of employes of the United Nations."

A U.N. spokesman said a preliminary investigation showed the interpreter had left the peace commission meeting voluntarily after shouting from the floor.

Meanwhile, the assembly's Commission on Man and Environment voted against recommending that the assembly adopt a resolution calling for legalization of marijuana. Instead it endorsed a resolution stating that drug abuse and alcoholism are harmful to the mental and physical health of young people.

The commission also voted to urge the assembly to declare contraceptives should be made available to all persons. The resolution appealed to Pope Paul VI to reconsider his encyclical banning the use of all birth control methods by Roman Catholics except periodic sexual abstinence.

The Commission on Education recommended that the assembly call for most military appropriations to be diverted to education in the underdeveloped countries.

Leaders of the assembly sent a third invitation to Communist China to send delegates. The invitation was cabled from a private New York address because the Communist Chinese refused last weekend to accept an invitation cabled from U.N. headquarters.

Chanel Wants Feminine Woman Look

By LUCIE NOEL

PARIS (AP) — Indestructible Gabrielle "Coco" Chanel leaned forward, eyes flashing: "Fashion should go down into the street, but I don't want it coming up from there."

The designer, who will show her fall and winter lines next week, was talking about the way women look—and men too.

Playful, provocative, witty, intense, her monologue went like this:

"I do not scandalize the world. I am the enemy of eccentricity, and I am most depressed at the way people look.

"Don't the women realize their first duty is to remain feminine and please men? And not try to look 20 when they're 60? Or like a long-haired kid? Why do they do it?

"The men are just as bad. Believe me, at my age I'm not looking for a lover. But if a long-haired hippie would approach me to make love I would send him packing.

"While they were redecorating my apartment, I had to sit in the lobby of the Ritz watching people stroll by. I have seen every skirt length, from instep to midcalf—I am against midcalf because it cuts the leg in two.

"As you know, I have never changed my hemlines. It has caused a lot of talk. But the other night I went to a restaurant with a friend. He said, "Quite a few people are greeting you." I put on my glasses and imagine my surprise. People were playing a game of make-believe. They were applauding silently in a silent homage. I was very touched."

She turned to a question about her wardrobe for Mrs. Georges Pompidou, wife of the French president.

"I told her and begged her not to wear her red suit on the street. In the country, one may dress as he likes. And I worry because she goes out alone. Surely, I tell her, you can find a friend to accompany you. After all, you are the First Lady now. Alone you might become the target of any wild young revolutionary and he might insult you.

"A friend came to see me the other day, an older man. He had let his silver hair grow long. It looked absurd. I told him this: "Your wife puts up with it because she loves you. But believe me, at my age I'm not looking for a lover. But if a long-haired hippie would approach me to make love I would send him packing.

"Pants. I have given the matter deep thought. Long ago. I was the first to wear pants and set the style. No, it was not at Biarritz, it was Venice, on the Lido.

"I did not like the idea of wet swimsuits. So I picked up four pairs of sailor pants... and wore them with my plain or striped top. The minute they saw me, they wanted them. But they had a big run-around to find any. I had bought the whole stock."

Pants or no pants, Chanel wants woman to remain feminine.

GRANDMOTHER JUST DOESN'T UNDERSTAND

Dear Helen:

Every summer my grandmother comes to visit., and life becomes hell. She is stubborn, bossy, and won't mind her own business.

Here's an example: Some boys were here when my folks were going out for the evening. They told my girl friend and I that they should leave now, but the boys whispered they'd meet us outside 15 minutes later.

My grandmother didn't see us sneak out, but when I came back in to get an empty bottle so we could play "Spin the Bottle," she said it was time for young ladies to be inside. (She didn't know the boys were there.) So I told her I had to go out and look for the fountain pen I'd lost. Then the two boys and us two girls made out. (She didn't know we were making out.)

Grandma called and said she would tell my mother, but we wouldn't listen to her.

Well, when my parents came home, guess who got in big trouble because of Grandma's big mouth? —RED-EYED "14"

Dear 14:

Guess who got in trouble because she was a sneaky kid who deserved it? Sorry, chum, I'm on your grandmother's side here. —H.

Dear Helen:

Two of my best friends have become involved with drugs. They use LSD, speed, marijuana and pills. All they do is tell me how beautiful it is and try to coax me into it. They'd like to turn on the whole world, but I can see them changing and I don't want to be like that.

I've been friends with them for six years, but the other day I heard them talking about slipping something in my drink.

Please tell me how I can keep straight and still keep their friendship? —WORRIED

Dear Worried:

Your letter points up one of the biggest problems in the drug fight. Users think it's their natural right to "convert" their friends, but the straights keep silent for fear of being labeled "square."

If you really care about these two girls, you'll switch to honesty. Tell them how they've changed, show them where they may be headed, meet every argument "for" with an argument "against" and keep pushing them to visit the drug-help house in your town—where they'll meet kids who have been there and are making a comeback.

This will accomplish one of two things: They'll either turn off dope, or turn YOU off as a preachy doop they'd rather avoid. Let's hope it's the former! —H.

Dear Helen:

You've had many touching, humorous and honest "What Is A" letters. May I add another? It may not be as warm and praising, but it's jut as honest. I know! I've seen him!

WHAT IS A DRUG ADDICT?

... A lonely youth seeking security, longing to belong.

... A rebellious youth, shunning society, hating rules, resenting authority.

... An experimenter with "harmless" non-addictive drugs that "couldn't possibly lead to stronger stuff."

... A small broken part of what he was or could become.

... A scared kid with a hypodermic—and then suddenly he's a ruthless kid stealing for the next fix, boosting meat in the local supermarket, mugging people, conning others, holding up a gas station, dealing drugs, all to support a habit he "couldn't get."

... A fellow running after a bag of junk, too tired to go on running, but too addicted to stop; sick when the last fix wears off, thin from lack of sleep, poor diet and too many needles, glassy-eyed with pinned pupils.

... A hopeless wreck, sitting in jail, scared, busted, and once more sick. Maybe he'll lick the habit, maybe not.

But most of all, who is the drug addict? Your brother? Your sister? Your best friend? — you? —Gerri

Packing Made Quick and Easy

By HELEN HENNESSY, NEA Women's Editor

NEW YORK—(NEA)—If you are planning a late summer vacation start your fun early and when it counts—at wardrobe-planning time. Having the right clothes will ensure a fun-filled holiday and organizing your packing can be easier than you think.

Make a list of the places you're going, what you'll wear there (a travel agent or airline office can help) and list what you have on hand and what you'll need to buy.

Then use this checklist for a master plan. It was compiled with the help of travel experts who know the quickest and easiest route for everything—even packing.

Choose your accessories first. One color for shoes and handbags will simplify everything.

Look for minimum fabrics made of care-free fibers, such as Quintess polyester or Phillips 66 nylon. You'll be unwrinkled and fresh during your trip and you can rinse out these drip-dry knits overnight. Unfamiliar laundries or dry-cleaning places are uncertain at best and you'll be glad to be independent of them.

Keep in mind that pants go virtually everywhere now.

Layer your luggage with bulky flat items on the bottom. Pack dresses and separates in plastic cleaner bags.

Separates will give you quadruple the wear of their individual number since you can mix-match. Scarves and jewelry will also give you versatility and take little space.

Tuck in an empty canvas tote bag for shopping.

Finally, when you have gathered all your clothes and incidentals together, leave behind half of them. The experts insist that most people carry double what they need.

Griffith Wants Shot at Benvenuti

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Emile Griffith still dreams of another shot at Nino Benvenuti's world middleweight title and Madison Square Garden officials are ready to pay top dollar to close the match.

"Nino is still my dream," said the 32-year-old Griffith Wednesday night after winning a unanimous 10-round decision over slow, ring-rusty 40-year-old Dick Tiger of Nigeria.

"I keep on beating all the contenders and I still can't get Nino," said Griffith. "I fight them all in their home towns and I win. They tried to get me bumped off in Copenhagen but I beat Tom Bogs. I'm still here."

Although Benvenuti is supposed to make his next defense against Carlos Monzon of Argentina in November, Garden officials still hope to make the Griffith match.

"Whatever they offer you to go to Italy," Garden Matchmaker Teddy Brenner told Gil Clancy, Griffith's manager, "we'll match it here."

Harry Markson, the Garden's boxing director, said he had in mind a January or February date for a middleweight title bout.

Getting Benvenuti may be a problem. He won the title here, lost it back to Griffith and then won it again. In his last New York appearance, the handsome Italian was beaten by Tiger in an over-the-weight match in May, 1969.

Tiger showed his age and the affects of an eight-month layoff while Griffith did a little showboating and taunted him during the fight.

"Come on, Tiger," said Griffith, "Let's fight. You know I'm beating you."

It was after Tiger finally replied in the 10th round and said, "I didn't know you were that kind of a man," referee Pete Della warned them both for talking.

Referee Della and judge Al Berl scored it 7-2-1 and judge Harold Lederman had it 8-2, all in favor of Griffith.

It was unanimous when they fought four years ago, too, but much closer as Griffith won the middleweight title for the first time.

Wednesday night Tiger had a 10-pound edge, 167 to 157 pounds.

Abdulakr Gadu, the consul general from Nigeria, visited Tiger's dressing room after the fight. Tiger told him he was sorry he let him down.

Tiger bristled when it was suggested that he might be through.

"I fought in Nigeria in 1949," he said. "I turned pro in 1952. I came to England and then to America. I won the middleweight and the light heavyweight title. I have no other business.

The crowd of 8,071 that paid $46,972 came to cheer Tiger but booed the slow bout. They still cheered Tiger when he left, having been turned off by Emile's showboat tactics.

1970 Called Year of Hitters

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Only two years ago hitters were moaning loudly and pitchers smiling quietly as the men on the mound dominated the game. Now who's grinning and who's groaning?

Whether it was because of the lowering of the pitching mound, a shortening of the strike zone, expansion, the new artificial fields or a livening of the baseball, 1970 has become the year of the hitters—at least as the second half of the season began today.

In 1968, there were only six .300 hitters in the major leagues —only one in the American League—and just 1,995 home runs, bringing a cry that low run games were turning off the fans.

Things picked up last year when there were 18 .300 hitters and more than 3,000 homers, and by the first half of this season, bats were booming more than ever. And the way hitters like Pete Rose and Carl Yastrzemski talked at the All-Star game Tuesday after playing on Cincinnati's new Astroturf, the second half of the season will bring more of the same.

As play resumed today with 12 games, there were 39 hitters batting .300 or better and already almost 2,000 home runs in the majors.

The Cincinnati Reds, keeping in tune with the times, are the top hitting team in the majors with 123 home runs and a team batting average of about .277. Those figures, along with improved pitching over last year, have made the Reds the only runaway leader going into the last half of July.

..The Reds have surprised everyone by taking a 10-game lead at the All-Star break in the National League West, a division that had a tight four-team race last season when the Reds finished fourth.

The biggest surprise in the American League has been the California Angels, who were in last place, 22 games back, at this time last season in the West. The Angels presently are second to Minnesota, five games behind.

Cincinnati's pitching staff has been perhaps the biggest surprise of all. The Reds added rookie Wayne Simpson and Jim McGlothlin and Gary Nolan returned from arm trouble to join holdover Jim Merritt, and all four have a chance at 20 victories—no team has ever had four 20-game winners in one season.

Merritt has 14, Sompson 13 and McGlothlin and Nolan 11 each, joining nine other National League pitchers who have 10 or more victories. The American League has nine.

In 1969, there were 15 20-game winners with a number of them certain not to repeat. Denny McLain of Detroit, after sitting out until July, is without a victory after consecutive seasons of 31 and 24 triumphs; Dave Boswell of Minnesota and Juan Marichal of San Francisco have only three each, and Bill Singer of Los Angeles, sidelined earlier by hepatitis, has five.

Phil Niekro of Atlanta has only seven and Mel Stottlemyre of the New York Yankees and Larry Dierker of Houston have eight each.

Baltimore has a crack at three 20-gamers in Jim Palmer and Dave McNally, 12 each and Mike Cuellar, 11.

Debbie Ault Wins Girls' Golf Meet

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Debbie Ault of North Little Rock overcame a seven-stroke lead held by Sally Steward of Fayetteville to win the state girls golf championship Wednesday.

Miss Steward shot an 86 Wednesday over the par 71 Fayetteville Country Club course while Miss Ault came in with a 76 for a 54-hole total of 238, three shots better than Miss Steward.

Rise Alexander of Hot Springs finished third with a 244 total.

Lugene McNell of Fort Smith won the first flight with a 261 total. Tanna Lee of Fort Smith was second with a 274 and Millie Walker of North Little Rock was third with a 280 total.

In the nine-hole flight, Eva Wilson of Little Rock beat Mary Brown of Little Rock in a playoff after the pair tied at 97.

Gail Davis of Fayetteville won the six-hole flight with an 82.

Fosse Suffers Bruise on Shoulder

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — All-Star catcher Ray Fosse was to travel with the Cleveland Indians today to Kansas City, but he was not expected to play in tonight's opening game of a three-game series with the Royals.

Fosse suffered a painful bruise in his left shoulder in a home plate collision with Pete Rose at the end of Tuesday's All - Star game. Rose scored the winning run on the play.

"It (the shoulder) stiffened up right when it happened," Fosse said Wednesday. "I won't be able to play tomorrow with this pain. It's okay unless I raise my arm"

"The shoulder should loosen up in another 24 hours," Indians' trainer Wally Bock said. "Ray will be sore for three or four days. There's no separation and that's what I was fearful of. It's just badly bruised. The joint at the shoulder was jarred and this created the stiffness."

"I thought he (Rose) would go around me," Fosse said of the 12th inning play in which he was injured. "He (Rose) said he started to dive, but had no place to go.

"If he had, it would have saved me a lot of pain," he added, trying to laugh.

"(Outfielder) Amos Otis threw the ball real well and I knew if I got it, he (Rose) was out," Fosse continued. Otis had fielded Jim Hickman's single and thrown to the plate.

U.S. Runners Hold Slim 58-48 Lead

STUTTGART, Germany (AP) — "I have confidence we'll win if we hold our momentum," said Leroy Walker, coach of the touring U.S. men's track team as the Americans prepared for tonight's windup of their two-day meet with West Germany.

The American men held a slim 58-48 lead after Wednesday's opening events before 20,000 at Neckar Stadium and walker commented, "I'm very satisfied with the first-night point total after our good performances in tossup events such as the javelin and pole vault."

Bill Skinner, a Navy veteran from the University of Tennessee, won the javelin with a throw of 291 feet, 9.64 inches. Sam Caruthers of Santa Clara, Calif., took the pole vault at 17 feet, 0.72 inches.

Other American winners were Ralph Mann of Brigham Young in the 400-meter hurdles, John Smith of UCLA in the 400-meter race and Ben Vaughan of the U.S. Army with 10-second flat performance in the 100-meter dash, only one tenth of a second off the world record.

The American girls did not do so well. They trailed the German girls 37-25 after Wednesday's competition.

NFL Players Want More in Pensions

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — A difference of $7.8 million in pension benefits emerged today as the major stumbling block to a settlement between National Football League players and owners after player's sources revealed their side of the issues.

The owners have offered $18 million in pension and insurance benefits for four years, an average of $4.5 million per year, while the players are asking for $25.8 million, or $6.45 million per year, a source close to the players told the Associated Press. The players were getting $2.8 million each year during the two-year pact which expired, making the $18 million figure an increase of about 53 per cent.

The player's source was answering an earlier Associated Press story quoting club sources as saying the owners were making an $18 million offer, but that the players had countered with a $29 million "must-take-all" demand.

"The $29 million figure never came into the discussions," the player's source said. "It is a piece of incorrect arithmetic. They (the owners) must be adding together everything. Both the $18 million and the $25.8 million figures relate only to pension and insurance benefits."

However, the players are asking for increased shares in postseason games, including the Super Bowl, and these increases possibly could be the difference between $25.8 million and $29 million.

The player's source said the owners also made two qualifications to their figure—that payments to players on losing teams in divisional playoff games be eliminated, and that players give up their financial rights for the use of their names, faces or uniforms in commercial enterprises. This right was granted them during 1968 negotiations.

The player's source said the $18-million figure would cost each club about $40,000 a year, while the $25.8 figure would be about $140,000 a year.

He pointed out that the owners have negotiated a television contract of about $40 million, an increase of about $13 million from the previous one.

Answering owners' fears that television revenue and attendance might not remain at its present level, he said the players were willing to reduce their demands accordingly should that happen.

While the pension issue was clear enough, the issue involving Commissioner Pete Rozelle's powers remained muddled. The players say it has been resolved by their agreeing to make Rozelle the final arbitrator on any non-injury grievance. Club sources, however, said the players still want an outside arbitrator to rule on general grievances filed by players.

While the issues were being made known, the threat to the College All-Star Game in Chicago July 31 lessened when the All-Stars decided to resume organized practice today in Evanston, Ill.

The decision was announced in Chicago by Steve Tannen of the All-Stars and in New York by John Mackey, president of the Players Association.

The All-Star rookies had gone on a sympathy strike Wednesday in support of the NFLPA after the owners had decided to lock the veterans out of training camp until the contract dispute is settled.

"We felt the best course of action would be to resume practice ... while still endorsing the Players Association demands," Tannen said.

"We recognize that the All-Stars need more time than Kansas City to train before the game," Mackey said. " ... to hold these players out of camp while other rookies are being allowed by the NFLPA to practice would be unfair."

The world champion Kansas City Chiefs opened their rookie camp Wednesday, along with several other NFL teams.

In other training camp developments, John Carlos, the former Olympic sprinter who signed to play with the Philadelphia Eagles, will be sidelined six weeks. Carlos tore a ligament in his right knee during a workout Tuesday and was to undergo an operation today.

Coach Blanton Collier of the Cleveland Browns was going to decide today whether to keep the club's rookie camp open or close it. No veterans are on hand and there are not enough players available to conduct many of the practice drills.

The Oakland Raiders reported 28 players in camp at Santa Rosa, Calif., while coaches conducting the Dallas Cowboys' rookie workout at Thousand Oaks, Calif., found themselves with plenty of receivers but only one quarterback.

Doug Sanders Loses British Open to Old Foe, Jack Nicklaus

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Doug Sanders lost the British Open Golf championship by one stroke in a playoff but the colorful Georgia native hasn't lost his sense of humor.

Sanders was hitting some balls on the practice tee at Whitemarsh Valley Country Club Wednesday when a spectator inquired: "How do you fade an iron shot?"

Sanders paused a moment, then not only explained a fade, but gave a lesson on a hook, demonstrating both types of shot. When he finished, Sanders looked at the questioner and drawled, "If Arnold Palmer had answered that, it would have cost you $200."

Sanders is here for the $150,600 Philadelphia Golf Classic, along with his British Open conqueror, Jack Nicklaus. All but four of the tour's top 20 money winners were entered as 147 started the four-day, 72 hole tournament. Missing were Palmer, U.S. Open champion Tony Jacklin, Gary Player and Dick Lotz, a two-time winner this year.

In addition to Nicklaus and Sanders, others seeking to dethrone defending champion Dave Hill included leading money winner Lee Trevino, Bruce Devlin, Bob Lunn, Miller Barber, Frank Beard, Billy Casper, Homero Blancas, Bob Charles and Tommy Aaron, all among the top 20 money winners this year.

The 37-year-old Sanders drew a lot of attention from the fans. One spectator shouted, "We ran out of handkerchiefs Doug," referring to the heartbreaking 2½-foot putt he missed on the 18th hole of Saturday's final round of the British Open which forced the 18-hole playoff with Nicklaus.

"Hell's bells we tried," said Sanders. "You can miss them for $1 or for a championship." Then, recalling the playoff in which he made up three of a four-stroke deficit on the last five holes, Sanders added, "It's tough to give that cat four strokes with five holes to play."

Asked what that missed 2½-foot putt meant to him financially, Sanders said, "No one will ever know. I know that it did cost a great deal of money. However, that is not the important thing. We don't think about the dollars and cents. We think more of the fact of winning the championship and being able to have your name on the trophy. It would have been a great feather in my cap."

J. Loyo-Mayo Not Angry Over Seeding

By TOM SEPPY
Associated Press Sports Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Little Joaquin Loyo-Mayo says he wasn't angry because he wasn't given a higher seeding in the $35,000 Washington Star International Tennis tournament even though he is Mexico's top player.

"It doesn't bother me to be left out," the 5-foot-6 star said Wednesday after defeating sixth seeded Clark Graebner of New York, a U.S. Davis Cup team member who is ranked fourth in the country.

The former NCAA champion from Southern California explained that this is the first time he's played on the entire tennis tour. Previously, Loyo-Mayo said, he had only played in the summer.

The 24-year-old Loyo-Mayo said he didn't even think of his victory as revenge over Graebner who beat him in Davis Cup competition in 1966 and 1968.

Loyo-Mayo scored the first major upset of the tournament when he downed Graebner, not known for his clay court game, 6-4, 6-3 in the second round.

He upset Graebner with his steady baseline game and passing shots. Graebner complained of the noise from the crowd and several baseline calls.

The Mexico Davis Cupper was to play Australian Dick Crealy in today's third round but said he never played him before.

All of the seeded players advanced to the third round, but Stan Smith, America's top-ranked player and second seed here, had to struggle to defeat another Latin, Miquel Olvera of Ecuador, 5-7, 8-6, 6-3 in 2½-hour battle in the heat and high humidity.

Smith was matched against fellow U.S. Davis Cup member, Charles Pasarell of Puerto Rico, today.

Pasarell, in an odd match, defeated Dick Stockton of Garden City, N.Y., 6-3, 0-6, 6-0.

Ilie Nastase of Rumania, top seeded, defeated Jim McManus of Berkeley, Calif., 6-2, 6-0, and was to face Pancho Guzman of Ecuador, who downed Lito Alvarez of Argentina 3-6, 6-1, 6-2.

Arthur Ashe of Richmond, Va., third seed, defeated Onny Parum of New Zealand, 6-3, 6-3, and was matched with Jaime Fillol of Chile, 14th seed, who beat G. Vilas of Argentina, 6-3, 6-1.

Cliff Richey of San Angelo, Tex., 4th seed, defeated Barry MacKay of San Francisco, 6-2, 6-2, and was to play Mike Estep of Dallas who won two matches Wednesday.

New Stadium Opens in Pittsburgh

By D. BYRON YAKE
Associated Press Sports Writer

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Tonight—after 10 years, $55 million and innumerable labor problems—Pittsburgh's Three Rivers Stadium opens.

A sell-out crowd of 50,235 persons will watch the Pittsburgh Pirates host the Cincinnati Reds. The teams lead their respective National League divisions.

It will be the largest crowd ever to attend a major league baseball game in Pittsburgh.

Three Rivers has a Tartan Turf surface that covers the field at exactly the same places the grass did at Forbes Field.

After a lengthy opening ceremony, following a parade during the day, the Pirates will don new uniforms when they take the field for the National Anthem. For practice they will wear their old ones.

Forbes Field was opened June 30, 1909, and the Pirates went on to win the World Series that year.

Now the Pirates lead the East Division by 1½ games and their fans are hoping for a repeat performance.

Three Rivers Stadium should be an asset to the Pirates if they remain in the pennant race but it could also help the opposition.

The measurements are 340 feet down each foul line, 410 to straight center and about 380 to left and right center.

Last season the Pirates hit 119 homers but only 43 at Forbes Field. Pirate opponents hit 33 home runs at Forbes Field in 1969, but tagged Pirate pitching for 63 in their own parks.

Ex-Managers Support Fired Umps

By HARRY EISENBERG
Associated Press Sports Writer

BOSTON (AP) — Two former major league managers, both known during their careers for having short tempers with umpires, have contradicted American League President Joe Cronin's evaluation of two umpires he fired in 1968 for being incompetent.

"Very capable," said Dick Williams, former manager of the Boston Red Sox and now coach of the Montreal Expos.

"Very competent," said Eddie Stanky, former manager of the St. Louis Cardinals and the Chicago White Sox.

Both men testified Wednesday in the third day of a National Labor Relations Board hearing the cases of Al Salerno and Bill Valentine.

Salerno, a major league umpire for seven years, and Valentine, a six-year veteran, contend in their unfair labor practice suit against the league that they were fired because they were trying to organize a collective bargaining unit for American League umpires.

The league contends, however, that they were fired for being "never at any one time competent."

Both Williams and Stanky were summoned by the NLRB to testify before examiner David Davidson.

A major part of the questioning centered on umpires swearing, which the league says is part of its case against Salerno.

Williams testified that swearing is "used to some extent" by umpires. He said, under questioning by NLRB Counsel Henry Kelleher, that he and Salerno exchanged profanities in a game in 1968 against the Minnesota Twins on a key play. He said, however, that there was nothing unusual about the words exchanged.

Under cross-examination by James Garner, league counsel, Williams said he could not recall any other instances when an umpire swore at him. "This was brought up," he said, "and I remember the incident."

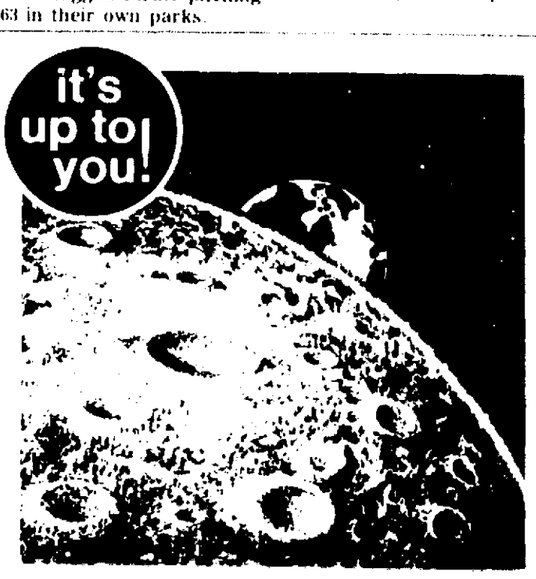

Under further questioning by Garner, Williams said he recalled saying to umpire Jim Honochick in a 1968 game in which he was ejected: "You had a no good, lousy crew all summer and they rubbed off on you."

Salerno said he worked in Honochick's crew about 85 games that year. Valentine said he could not recall exactly, but he worked on Honochick's crew longer than usual, and it may have been all season.

Under further questioning by Kelleher, however, Williams said he did not know who was on Honochick's crew at the time.

"Probably at that time I was very upset," he said. "There are some crews you have trouble with, it just works out that way. Sometimes all the close plays go against you ... it does not mean they're not good umpires."

Stanky, now a baseball coach at the University of South Alabama, said he had observed the work of both men. "I sincerely believe," he said, "that when these men come to the major leagues, they are competent."

Williams Gets No Sympathy

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Dave Williams, the humble head of the Houston golf dynasty, isn't likely to stir much sympathy across the land with his problems.

He's in the position of being the guy in the Cadillac with a flat tire. Not many folks in a 1954 pickup truck are going to stop and help.

Williams has had 12 NCCA golf championships in the last 15 years as the Cougar coach. He's been so successful he can't land the top schoolboy golf names.

For example, Austin's fabulous Ben Crenshaw wouldn't even visit Williams. Crenshaw eventually went to Texas.

"We don't get the outstanding players any more," Williams says. "I guess they don't want to come down here and work. They're afraid they might have to qualify for a position."

Some coaches were amazed when the Cougars won the NCAA championships recently at Columbus, Ohio.

Williams says "One coach told me he knew I wasn't outcoaching him. He said I didn't really have the players. He's right. I've just been lucky."

Houston came from two shots down to win by 10 on the final day.

"The paper in Columbus said we had lost all our material, we weren't deep like we used to be and that we couldn't play north of the Red River," Williams says. "I thought we played pretty well."

Williams says "We are getting good players at Houston, but we don't get the super player. We haven't had a super player since Jacky Cupit.

"I think one thing helps us. When a boy decides to come to Houston he's not scared — he's not afraid of competition. He knows when he shows up he is going to be in a battle. I think some of the better players don't want to go through a battle. The super players have something to lose."

Houston players qualify sometimes as many as three times a week for positions on the team. They also play in 18 tournaments a year.

"We get the players we think will work a little harder," Williams says. "I think our kids are better conditioned mentally. They've played so much competitive golf that they don't ever give up. They don't get mad if they miss a shot . . . they have a little more poise. It comes with winning and being in competition. The team has discipline. There are no long hairs or Joe Colleges on our squad."

John Mahaffey, who tied Crenshaw for low amateur honors in the U.S. Open at Chaska, Minn., came to Houston a partial scholarship.

The 51-year-old Williams says Mahaffey is a perfect example of a good player who became a great one through desire.

"You don't find many around who want to be a player," Williams says. "Desire is the key. It's an old word, but you have to have it whether you're a golfer or a piano player."

The only well-known player who will be on the team next year is Bruce Ashworth. Tom Jenkins, John Mills and Corker DeLoach return from the 1970 championship team.

"We've got some boys coming up from high school who might help like Stan Lee of Heber Springs, Ark., Warren Kovar of Spring Branch and possibly Steve Robinson of Fort Worth and Brady Miller of Orange," Williams says. "They are good players, but not super yet."

Collegians in Sympathy With NFLers

CHICAGO (AP) — The College All-Stars have made their sympathies known for locked out National Football League veterans and they're ready again to prepare for their scheduled battle with the world champion Kansas City Chiefs.

The collegians decided Wednesday night to return to supervised drills after a one-day strike.

There's still the possibility that the July 31 All-Stars' football classic won't come off, since the Chiefs, along with the other National Football League clubs, have locked out veterans from training during management's dispute with the NFL Players Association.

Nonetheless, All-Star spokesman Steve Tanner said the collegians would train with the squad's coaches today "while still endorsing the Players Association demands."

Most of the 53 All-Stars worked out on their own at Northwestern University's Dyche Stadium Wednesday while Coach Otto Graham and his staff remained in seclusion.

John Mackey, president of the Players Association, said in New York that that decision to return to supervised practice was made jointly by the All-Stars and the association.

"We recognize that the All-Stars need more time than Kansas City to train before the game," Mackey said. "Therefore a decision was made ... to hold these players out of camp while other rookies are being allowed by the NFLPA to practice would be unfair."

A spokesman for the players added that the fact that the All-Star game is played for charity had some bearing on the decision.

"No one wants to hinder a source for a charity," the spokesman said.

The game is sponsored by the Chicago Tribune Charities Inc.

3 Opponents Lined Up for Tiger

MILANO MARITTIMA, Italy (AP) — Dick Tiger of Nigeria, Carlos Monzon of Argentina and Emile Griffith of New York will be the three next opponents of world middleweight boxing champion Nino Benvenuti, the Italian title holder said today.

Benvenuti, who is vacationing in this Adriatic sea resort, pointed out he will put his crown at stake against Monzon and Griffith while the bout with Tiger would be a nontitle fight.

"Next September I am going to fight Tiger. Dick outpointed me in New York and I want revenge. Then (on Nov. 7 in Rome) I will defend the crown against Monzon," Benvenuti said.

Monzon is the No. 1 challenger in the World Boxing Association ratings.

"If I retain the title against Monzon, then I would fight Griffith again. Emile is the only middleweight who can give me trouble at present. It would be a good fight," Benvenuti said.

British Games Under Way in Edinburgh

EDINBURGH, Scotland (AP) —Nine guns boom out atop the 820-foot "Arthur's Seat" overlooking the Meadowbank Stadium today to announce the ninth Commonwealth Games are open.

Nearly 2,000 athletes from 42 nations associated with Britain will parade before the Duke of Edinburgh, the husband of Queen Elizabeth II, as the "Friendly Games" get under way.

INSTANT FOREST

HIGHLAND PARK, Ill. (AP) — A large instant forest is being installed on an 11-acre site as landscaping for a $4.5 million apartment complex.

Max A. Matz, chief landscape architect for the Chicago Park District, heads a firm that created the plan that calls for planting 13,416 trees, bushes and flowers on a portion of the land. Nine acres will be left free of growth to give the area an open-land appearance.

Many of the trees honey locusts, pine oaks, sugar maples and Maraine ash average 30 to 35 feet in height.

DOCTOR'S MAILBAG

Frequent Pap Smear Is Safety Measure

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Q—I am a woman, 50. My Pap smear showed No. 2 cells. What does that mean?

A—A Class 2 Pap smear contains cells that are atypical but are not considered to be cancerous. Instead of waiting a year for a checkup you should have another smear test after three or four months.

Q—Since I had a hysterectomy, is it necessary for me to have a physical examination every year?

A—Whether your uterus was removed because of cancer or for some other reason, a checkup including a Pap smear should be done at least once a year to rule out a primary cancer or a recurrence of an old one.

Q—At what age can I stop taking Pap smear tests? I am past 70.

A—Don't ever stop. This is a small price to pay for the early detection of a uterine cancer.

Q—What is chronic pelvic inflammatory disease? Can it become cancerous? Does it prevent a woman from becoming pregnant?

A—This is an infection of the uterus, uterine tubes or ovaries. It may be a complication of childbirth or a venereal disease. It is not related to cancer. In many, but not all, cases it prevents conception.

Q—I am the mother of three children. I'm 44 and very nervous. Do you think I could learn to drive a car?

A—This is not an easy decision to make because there are so many variables to consider. Because of modern congestion on the roads most of the fun has gone out of driving and frustrations behind the wheel are much greater than they were 10 years ago. On the other hand any mother should be prepared to drive her child to a hospital in an emergency that she hopes will never arise. I would suggest that you get a good instructor and take a few lessons to see how well you do. You may find it easier than you think. If not, you can give it up and have the satisfaction that at least you tried.

Q—Why do I have to blow my nose two or three times while I am eating even though I don't have a cold? And why do my eyes water? Is there any cure for this?

A—This sounds like an allergic rhinitis. In order to find out which food is causing it have your doctor put you on a series of elimination diets. The treatment depends on the cause.

ONE OF A KIND. This is a "dobra," offspring of a donkey and a zebra and the world's first, according to the Asahiyama Zoo at Hokkaido, Japan, where it was born. Unique animal has its mother's striped legs and father's long ears and mane.

Opening lead—♣ K

There was a time in the distant past when a man who opened with a forcing two bid and couldn't make game was somewhat of a pariah. Today we are much more sensible and there are just three general requirements for this bid. The first is that you want to be in game irrespective of partner's hand. The second that you have so many high cards that you are afraid that a one bid will be passed out. The third that your hand shows distinct slam possibilities.

South's hand met all these requirements nicely and he was fully justified in opening with two. Furthermore, he should have made game in spite of the frightful hand placed on the table by his partner.

South was finesse happy. He looked over dummy and saw that the nine of trumps would be an entry. That would give him a chance to try the diamond finesse and, if it worked, he would have his 10th trick.

He ruffed the second club, cashed the ace and king of trumps and ace of diamonds, entered dummy with that nine of trumps, lost the diamond finesse and was down one.

We have no objection to the finesse. It is a fine play but it is only 50-50. South should have made his contract without it. He should have played one round of trumps to start his campaign and then continue by playing ace and another heart. When he got in next, he should have led out his last heart. This would set up dummy's six of hearts as a winner. He could get there with the nine of trumps and discard his jack of diamonds.

Of course, suits don't have to break 3-3, but if hearts failed to break he would still have been able to try the finesse.

1,000 Hear Candidates at Mt. Nebo

DARDANELLE, Ark. (AP)—Eleven of the 13 candidates for governor pleaded their cases to a crowd that swelled to about 1,000 persons at the 22nd Annual Mt. Nebo Chicken Fry Wednesday but the speeches carried very little that had not been heard before.

James "Uncle Mac" MacKrell surprised the audience, however, when he said he had no hopes of being elected governor but asserted that his aim was merely to eliminate Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller in the Aug. 25 primary.

"I thoroughly believe I'm your only chance to defeat Rockefeller," MacKrell said. "Now I do not expect to get elected governor. I'm not so naive as to believe that I would become governor, but I could defeat Rockefeller.

Most of the other candidates spent their time criticizing Rockefeller's performance in the field of crime and punishment of convicts.

Rockefeller and the Rev. R. J. Hampton of North Little Rock were the only two candidates who did not appear at the fry.

Former Gov. Orval E. Faubus, who clearly was the most warmly received by the audience, cited accomplishments during his former administration in the Yell County area.

He said when he left office $300,000 was earmarked for improvements to the Mt. Nebo State Park but that Rockefeller subsequently killed the project.

Faubus said the park needed adequate water at the top of the mountain and added: "I say we can pump water up here to the beautiful park of Mt. Nebo if we can pump it up to Petit Jean for Rockefeller's cattle."

Walter Carruth, the American party nominee for governor, attacked many federal programs at the federal level, but also joined critics of Rockefeller's performance in the penal area.

Dale Bumpers of Charleston, a Democrat, said of the prison issue:

"We owe it to every prisoner in our prisons every right to rehabilitate himself, but we owe it to society not to release him until he has."

W. S. Cheek of West Memphis, also a Democrat, pledged that as governor he would "see that prison terms are served."

Cheek also took time for critical shots at two of his primary foes—Faubus and Bill G. Wells, who was the party's nominee for lieutenant governor in 1968.

Dome Biggest Ever, Says McKeithen

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Test pilings have been hammered down for the 78,000-seat superdome here, a $93 million project that Gov. John McKeithen says will be "the largest building the world has ever seen."

The governor, Mayor Moon Landrieu and various other public officials and sports personalities were on hand for the ceremonial pile driving Wednesday.

Six concrete shafts were to be hammered down to a depth of 165 feet under the main support column of the dome, with eight others 85 feet deep beneath the support columns of the parking complex.

Dixon said demolition of buildings on the site will begin by September with actual construction on the stadium to start next spring. It is supposed to be completed by June or July, 1973.

The stadium will be the home of the New Orleans Saints of the National Football League and is designed to house baseball, hockey, and practically any trade show or convention, Dixon said.

Would Cut Defense Dept. Budget More

By JOHN LENGEL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon's budget, already described as pared to the bone, is faced with demands of up to $10 billion in further cuts as the defense spending debate shifts to the Senate.

The first attempted cutback is likely to come early next week when the Senate considers the military procurement bill for hardware such as the antiballistic missile, big bombers, giant jet transports, offensive missiles and bigger tanks.

The Senate Armed Services Committee, releasing the procurement bill Wednesday, cut the Nixon administration's $20.3 billion hardware request, approved by the House, to $19.2 billion.

The bill is one of a series of measures that comprise the Defense Department's budget for this fiscal year. The total amount requested by the administration is 71.2 billion.

Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, called the House-approved hardware bill austere and "the lowest possible dollar level consistent with the necessity for providing for our national survival."

However, Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., leader of the Pentagon spending critics, declared, "More needs to be done."

He presented a 100-page detailed report of his group outlining some $10 billion in cuts and a redefinition of national security aims.

The Proxmire group's proposals would cut $5 billion for hardware and an equal amount for manpower.

The proposed cuts would reduce the ABM to research levels, halt work on the B1 bomber, antisubmarine aircraft, F14 and F15 fighter programs, and restrict Navy shipbuilding, including destroyers.

The additional $5 billion could be saved, the critics said, by reducing the U.S. military manpower level by 1 million men to 2.5 million. They called for a reduction in U.S. troop strength in Europe from 300,000 to 100,000 men and in Korea from 50,000 to 30,000.

Essentially, the Stennis committee endorsed the basic components of the Pentagon's hardware requests, trimming only the edges of the programs and scuttling none.

Romancing Between Prince and Tricia Nixon Is Speculative

By PEGGY SIMPSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prince Charles and Princess Anne, arriving today for their first visit to the United States, will be treated to a contrasting slice of Americana ranging from hot dogs and bourbon balls to baseball and rock music.

There will be no romantic interludes between the festivities, the White House insisted as questions persisted about the possibility of a budding romance between the 21-year-old heir to the British throne and President Nixon's 24-year-old daughter Tricia.

"About a romance—how can you rule it out in advance?" a very British reporter asked Constance Stuart, Mrs. Nixon's press aide, who had described the visit as a casual encounter between friends.

She stuttered and sputtered, then good-naturedly said she guessed she couldn't on that one.

The prince and princess will be flown by presidential jet from Canada, where they spent a triumphal two weeks helping Canada celebrate the centennial of its Northwest territories. They will return to London Saturday night.

Although their visit is not considered a state affair, trumpets are heralding their arrival at the White House lawn and President Nixon is personally greeting them.

After refreshments in the portrait-filled Blue Room—including that of President James Madison who fled shortly before the British Army burned the White House in 1814—the royal couple will helicopter with Tricia, Julie and David Eisenhower and 20 of their friends to Camp David in the Catoctin Mountains for a picnic.

The young Eisenhowers and Tricia will show the Britishers some of Washington's landmark monuments by night.

The couple will tour the Capitol Friday and meet with House Speaker John McCormack and Vice President Spiro T. Agnew.

At the Smithsonian Institution, Astronauts Frank Borman and Neil Armstrong will describe the space exhibits and present Princess Anne with a rock of Smithsonite and the prince with a piece of antique American china.

Friday night, with the President likely looking from the balcony, the royal couple will mingle with 700 guests at a late-night buffet supper and dance to two rock music bands on the White House lawn.

Music will be by one of Canada's top rock groups, "The Guess Who," and by a vigorous-voiced American, Gary Puckett. At midnight there will be fireworks on the lawn.

Red Takeover Main Issue in Chile

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — Violence and expressed fears of a Communist takeover have emerged as two main issues in the three-way race for Chile's presidency, up for election Sept. 4.

Five persons have been killed and about 140 wounded in riots over the past four months, prompting President Eduardo Frei's outgoing Christian Democrat administration to declare a state of emergency in key areas.

The rightist National party, backing 74-year-old Jorge Allessandri, a former president, has raised the specter of Soviet tanks ringing Government House if the leftists win.

The leftist candidate, Salvador Allende, 62, veteran Marxist and friend of Cuba's Fidel Castro, has been trying to convince the voters that if elected, he will not meddle with Chile's armed forces or alter the economy of this copper-rich nation along South America's southwest coast.

The leftists have raised specters also, spreading rumors that Frei might call off the election or that there might be a military takeover before then. Frei has denied any such possibilities.

Frei's Christian Democrats are in the race with Radomiro Tomic, 57, party leader and former ambassador to Washington. His main difficulty has been trying to convince everyone that he will not carry on some of Frei's unpopular measures. Frei's government has been plagued by strikes and trouble with leftist elements.

Allessandri seems to lead the field so far with a campaign based on a call for law and order with resistance to what he claims is a threatened Communist takeover.

Public opinion polls indicate, however, that the election may have to be decided by Congress.

Cambodia Raid Funds Are O.K'd

By WALTER R. MEARS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Armed Services Committee has endorsed U.S. financing of South Vietnamese raids into Cambodia, while forbiding the use of Pentagon funds to bolster the Phnom Penh government.

The in-between policy was recommended Wednesday by the Senate as part of a $19.2 billion military authorization bill, but it may be a month before the Indochina aspects of the legislation reach a vote.

Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., the committee chairman, said the situation may change drastically by then. He left open the possibility his panel might reconsider the issue to take into account any changed conditions later in the summer.

At the State Department, meanwhile, Secretary of State William P. Rogers said immediate prospects for a peace settlement in South Vietnam "are not too bright..."

But he also said, "I have always felt, and I still feel, that there is a reasonable prospect that you can end this war by a negotiated settlement."

That reversed the emphasis of a statement he made in London Sunday.

Rogers said for the next two months or so, the aftermath of U.S. and South Vietnamese operations in Cambodia had lessened the prospects for successful negotiations. But he said over the long run, action against the Communist sanctuaries in Cambodia had increased settlement chances.

The Armed Services Committee proposal provides a basis in law for U.S. financial support of future Cambodian sanctuary operations by South Vietnam and its allies.

The bill authorizes up to $2.5 billion for support of South Vietnamese and allied forces, and for aid to local forces in Laos and Thailand.

"There is no intent to broaden the authorization beyond the support of participation in border sanctuary and related operations in order to protect U.S. forces in Vietnam or to accomplish protective reaction strikes," the committee said in its report on the bill.

"The purpose of the clarification is to make clear that the use of defense funds is authorized for support in those areas of Cambodia where for the purposes of Vietnamization or the protection of U.S. troops military action becomes necessary," the committee said.

The Senate earlier adopted an amendment including a ban against U.S. financial support of foreign forces which might move into Cambodia to support the government there.

Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., one of the sponsors of that amendment, said the committee's terms seemed to be in line with it. "They move toward our amendment," he said.

A House-Senate conference committee began Wednesday its efforts to work out a compromise on the foreign military sales legislation which includes the Cambodian amendment.

It got nowhere, and agreed to try again next Tuesday.

Buffalo Park Bill 'Buried'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. John Paul Hammerschmidt, R-Ark., says that a bill to make the Buffalo River a national river is buried in a backlog of legislation

Some conservationists have expressed concern that the bill will die in a House committee. Hammerschmidt said that nobody wanted to kill the bill and it was "hopeful" the bill could be brought out of committee.

Hammerschmidt is sponsor of the bill.

What's Needed Is Universal Service —as With Swiss

Millions of Americans like your editor find fault with our selective draft system because of its inherent uncertainties and think instead we should have the universal service plan practiced by Switzerland.

But leave it to a rugged Japanese-American school - master in California to state the case in exact words.

Today's wire reports that S.I. Hayakawa, the embattled president of San Francisco State College, where riots are suppressed almost before they can get started, says he favors a plan to make all boys and girls subject to two to three years' federal duty upon reaching the age of 18.

That's the essence of the Swiss universal service system--at least as far as the men are concerned.

Mr. Hayakawa makes precisely the point that is scored by long-time advocates of universal service—that uncertainty about who is going to be called up in the draft sparks off much of the present campus unrest, and a universal service plan would remove this uncertainty. Under universal service everyone goes.

And with the increased numbers made available under a universal plan it would be possible to reduce the time each each draftee is required to serve.

I might further add there is a growing sentiment in the United States for the elimination of all physical deferment clauses. One of the more ridiculous aspects of the selective draft system is its assumption that draftees have to be superior men physically. The armed services have millions of jobs similar to the civilian work which physically-deferred men do without any trouble at all.

The Swiss have an admirable government.

And they have a military draft which the United States would do well to copy verbatim.

NORTH LITTLE ROCK (AP) —North Little Rock police are holding a 27-year-old man today after he exchanged gunfire with a patrolman Wednesday night.

Police said the man was being questioned in connection with a burglary.

Patrolman Tommy Robinson spotted the man in downtown North Little Rock Wednesday night and took him into custody.

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Calif. (AP)—FBI agents have joined the manunt for a parking lot attendant who authorities say kidnaped a teen-age girl after shooting her two companions, one fatally.

The federal agents entered the case on the basis of a federal warrant charging Herschel Andrew Gay, 26, of Los Angeles with interstate flight to avoid prosecution.

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — An explosion shattered a big bank in the center of this tense city today. First reports said 12 persons were injured, four seriously.

The debris broke windows in stores around the Northern Bank in High Street.

Police said the explosion was caused by a bomb planted inside the bank.

The blast wrecked the front of the bank, shattered windows of stores opposite. Hundreds of shoes in a shop next door were scattered over the street.

Shop clerks ran to help the injured as they were carried from the smoking front of the building.

Army Called Into British Dock Strike

LONDON (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II proclaimed a state of emergency today, enabling the government to order troops into Britain's strike-crippled docks to keep vital supplies moving.

The sovereign met with her privy councilors only minutes after returning to Buckingham Palace from a visit to Canada.

The country's first national dock strike in 44 years, called Wednesday night after representatives of the dockers rejected a proposed pay increase, stopped loading and unloading at Britain's 40 major ports and took 47,000 longshoremen off the docks.

"It looks like a long one. I can see no way out," said the docks organizer for the Transport and General Workers Union, Tim O'Leary.

The docks normally handle $600 million worth of goods and raw materials a week, and every industry in the island nation will be hit within days.

Auto manufacturers estimate they will lose nearly $20 million worth of export sales for every working day the docks are shut down However, most plants close for annual vacations at the end of next week. And gas and oil supplies are expected to hold up, since the petroleum companies have their own port facilities.

Food supplies were the major concern

The Ministry of Agriculture said there was less than a month's supply of meat in cold storage; 30 per cent of the beef and 55 per cent of the lamb Britain eats is imported.

Other stocks on hand include six weeks' butter and two months' wheat, flour, bacon, cheese and sugar. The nation is almost self-sufficient in eggs, pork and milk.

The strike does not affect seven ports operated by British Railways and a few private ports But workers there were believed reluctant to take on any significant increase in cargo handled.

The unions had demanded a 70 per cent increase in their basic pay, from $27 92 a week to $48 The employers said this worked out to a 62 per cent increase in average weekly earnings and offered a 7 per cent increase based on improvement in the guaranteed minimum wage. The union representatives rejected this 48 to 35, and the employers withdrew their offer

Retires on Finding She's About to Teach Own Granddaughter

By BOB WEST

Texarkana Gazette

LOCKESBURG, Ark. (AP) — Mrs. Pearl Coulter ended a 29-year tenure as principal of the Locksburg schools with her retirement at the end of this year.

In 1941, after seven years teaching experience, Mrs. Coulter assumed the post of principal.

"I've taught all six of my children," she recalls. "Plus neices, nephews, cousins ... But this year I taught my grandaughter and I think that's enough."

Mrs. Coulter has seen many changes during her years at Lockesburg. The past year the school was integrated for the first time with consolidation of Sevier County High School at Lockesburg. That was an all-black school until an antibusing law and a federal court order ended it and forced Lockesburg school to accept black students.

"We were able to work out all the problems," Mrs. Coulter said. "We have five teachers and 80 students who transferred from the black school to Lockesburg."

"Fundamentally," Mrs. Coulter philosophized recently about her 30 years teacher, "Human nature hasn't changed much. But I have found the greatest change in the attitude of parents."

"There was a time when parents backed up teachers," she said. "Today I think we have more parental delinquents than

Purcell on Line for School Tax

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Atty. Gen. Joe Purcell, a Democratic gubernatorial hopeful, told the Arkansas Education Association Wednesday he was risking his political future on the assumption that voters would accept a tax increase to finance education.

Purcell and Dale Bumpers of Charleston, also a gubernatorial can(with representatives of the AEA about their views on education.

Bumpers said he had not ruled out the possibility of a tax increase to help finance education. He said he considered education the number one issue in Arkansas.

The AEA has interviewed other gubernatorial candidates but the organization has not announced whether it will formally endorse anyone, as it has in the past.

Purcell said that more efficient and economical management of the state's money would restore the people's confidence in how their tax dollars were being spent, even though it might not produce a lot of new money for the state.

"It's not a question of whether we've got to have a tax increase," Purcell said. "The question is what taxes are going to increase and I think the first tax and the first area of taxation that we need to consider is tax reform."

At Some Point in Life Man Loses His Identity, Boyle Says

By BOB HARING

Associated Press Writer

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — At some point in life, a man loses his identity.

No longer is he Sidney Glutz, captain of industry, magnate of merchandising, molder of men, maker of millions.

He is Aaron's daddy. Or Susie's. Or whatever the names of his children might label him.

It must be humbling to be board chairman of a giant corporation and be known not for a brilliant career in business, a startling innovation in automotives or a daring leap in finance, but because you are "Jimmy's daddy—and he's the best somersaulter in the block."

It is humbling enough for humbler men, returning from the 6:07 or a long day at the office, to hear the cry of a neighbor child: "Bob's daddy, Bob's daddy, come see what we made."

The triumphs of the workaday world are submerged somehow to being the father of the maker of a sandpile rocket ship imagined from three old tires and a broken toy plano.

When the real world does intrude, it is backwards.

To the rising middle-class executive, the cry of a forlorn son: "Billy's daddy is just great—he drives a truck and he let me drive the wheel."

The loss of identity is a peculiarity of parenthood.

Bachelors, regardless of age, don't have it. A childless couple may be Bob and Jo to grandparent age. Given children, they are reduced to Bobby's daddy and mommy.

Children identify instantly with parents, as a cat arches instinctively at the smell or sight of a dog.

Adults big enough to be parents—that is, too old to be baby sitters, too young to be grandparents--pose a puzzle when they are childless. They are big kids.

The first squawl of the infant starts the change. It is accelerated with walking and attains light speed with group play.

A child once asked your wife, "Can Bob come out to play?" Now, he asks a 4-year-old's mother, "Can Bobby's daddy get our ball?"

What must save the corporate chairman—assuming that chairmen and such magnates do have children—is the rise to the top.

The identity problem is one of youth, or at least, of relative youth, '20s and '30s. Board chairmen, even in today's youth-accented world, tend to be olders.

Board chairmen rarely have toddlers to identify them as, "Brian's daddy." By the time a man reaches the top, his children have grown and passed from his nest and with them has fled the identity crisis.

Although, come to think of it, it could be even more humbling to be a step further removed in the identity chain—to be "Jimmy's grandaddy."

Sense Revolt of Liberals in Russia

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

AP Special Correspondent

The kremlin chiefs provided observers this week with reason to wonder whether a rebellion against the elders is slowly shaping up at the top of he Soviet power pyramid.

Leonid Brezhnev, the general secretary of the Communist party, unexpectedly reversed himself. On July 2, in a long speech on the shortcomings of Soviet agriculture, he said the 24th Communist party Congress would be held before the end of 1970. On Monday, 11 days later, Tass announced that the party's Central Committee had voted to hold the Congress next March, three months after 1970 ends. This suggests that Brezhnev was overruled by others.

Party statutes require a congress every four years, but this statute has been repeatedly violated.

However, there are other statutes which could be embarrassing to some top leaders.

In 1961, when Nikita Khrushchev was in charge, he revised the party statutes so that he could fire anybody who got in his way and at the same time expect to keep himself at the helm.

Khrushchev's new rules, duly adopted by the 22nd Congress, required that not less than a quarter of all Central Committee members be replaced at each congress. Nobody in top ruling bodies including the Presidium—now called the Politburo again—could serve more than three consecutive terms. That would have ruled out Khrushchev, too, except for another clause which said that members with "particular" talents could stay in office indefinitely.

Khrushchev was ousted in October 1964, possibly on the legal basis provided by his own statutes. In March 1966 the 23rd party Congress decided "there will be a systematic renewal of the composition of the party organization" but did not go into specifics. The suggestion was that there would be some revision—how much was not clear.

In recent years there have been hints that the party's lower ranks were pressing those at the top to open the avenues to power. Even before the 1966 Congress some party sources were deploring a tendency toward automatic re-election of leading figures.

Only three of the 11 members of the ruling Politburo are under 60. The average age of the 11 is 61. That means there has been little turnover at the top and not much encouragement for younger men.

Brezhnev has been speaking with much authority lately, chewing out ministries, one after another, for poor industrial or agricultural performances.

Report on Upturn Is Expected

By STERLING F. GREEN

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A very slight upturn in real national output—but enough to erase fears of a serious recession—is expected in the second quarter Gross National Product report due Friday.

A preliminary estimate of the GNP—which measures the value of all goods and services produced—showed such an increase, government sources said.

If the increase has survived the usual last-minute revisions, it will cheer the Republican administration by indicating the economy will be safely on the upgrade by the November congressional elections.

It would be almost equally cheering if the real GNP merely held even or close to even, for that would indicate the sag in real output—a drop of $5.5 billion in the first quarter—had been halted and the decline was "bottoming out" only a little bit later than President Nixon's economists had predicted.

Continued weakness in the goods-producing sector of the economy was shown Wednesday, however, by the Federal Reserve Board's index of industrial production for June.

That indicator of the output of factories, mines and refineries showed a dip of three-tenths of 1 per cent in June for the third consecutive month. The index stood at 168.6 per cent of the 1957-9 average, or 3.4 per cent under the peak reached last summer.

This continued a downtrend begun last August, broken only by small increases in February and March. Output of business and defense equipment and materials slipped further, to a rate 8.5 per cent below the peak last fall.

It would be quite possible for the industrial production index to decline while the real GNP rose. The GNP includes a vast range of service, financial, commercial and governmental activities not covered by the industrial production index.

The real GNP has become the most closely watched of all government indicators since the onset of inflation, because it measures the value of total output in 1958 dollars and thus eliminates the effect of inflation.

The conventional GNP, which measures output in current dollars, is expected to show a further sizeble rise for the April-June quarter, caused mainly by price increases. It hit an annual rate of $959.6 billion in the January-March quarter, for an illusory rise of $7.4 billion while real output went down.

The usual definition of a recession is a decline in real GNP lasting two consecutive quarters. Technically the present slowdown already has qualified as a recession, because of dips of $800 million in fourth-quarter 1969 and $5.5 billion in first-quarter 1970.

Bomb-Throwers Set Off Demand for a Curb on Explosives

By LAWRENCE L. KNUTSON

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The bomb-throwing terrorist, a figure rarely seen in recent U.S. history, has re-emerged in the spotlight of separate Senate and House probes.

The result may be new federal laws regulating the explosives industry and controlling the sale and shipment of dynamite, nitroglycerin and other bomb components.

Another possibility, included in a bill already proposed by President Nixon, is a set of new stringent federal criminal laws providing the death penalty for persons convicted of the illegal interstate transportation of explosives used in fatal bombings.

That proposal has aroused some members of Congress who say they fear opening a legal door to government repression of all political and social dissent, not just that which veers toward violence.

Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., and Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., members of the Senate Investigations subcommittee, cautioned Wednesday against measures so repressive "they could end up by destroying the freedoms we

7 Die, 52 Hurt in Crash of School Bus

ALLENTOWN, Pa. (AP) — comic books, a baseball cap and other personal belongings scattered across a roadside gully were stark reminders of a bus crash that killed seven children and injured 52 persons Wednesday.

The victims were riding in a bus chartered by the Hillel Country Day School of Lawrence, N.Y., when it skidded off a wet highway.

Screaming youngsters were thrown from the bus as it pitched end over end down an embankment. Some were pinned beneath it when it came to rest off U.S. 22, a four-lane highway.

Forty-nine children and 10 adults from the wealthy Long Island community of Lawrence and nearby towns were aboard. They were headed for an overnight outing at the chocolate capital of Hershey and the Pennsylvania Dutch country.

Authorities said the dead ranged in age from 11 to 16.

Three of the injured were listed in critical condition.

"When I looked up, I saw the bus just spinning off the road," said Philip Gaar, a Hillel representative. He said he climbed from the wreckage through a window and started helping others out. "There were people on the top of the banks and you had to yell and scream at them before they would come down to help."

A trooper, who asked that his name not be used, said, "When this road gets a little wet, it is like a grease stick."

There have been two truck accidents in the same spot in the past two weeks. The road forms an "S" curve between two bridges.

Anthony L. Schmieg, chief highway safety officer with the National Transportation Safety Board, was en route to the site. The board is an independent federal agency with responsibility for safety in all modes of transportation.

New Oil Bill May Doom Free Trade

By EDMOND LeBRETON

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — House tax writers have wrapped up a precedent-breaking bill to limit imports by continuing the present system of quotas on foreign oil.

The House Ways and Means Committee completed its basic decisions late Wednesday on the strongly protectionist bill, which breaks with the country's freer-trade policies dating to the New Deal of the 1930s.

Oil imports are subject now to quotas under national security legislation broad enough to allow the president to use other control methods.

As the committee was finishing its report, the State Department's top economic expert was forecasting the possibility of a business war between the United States and its main trading partners.

"There is a danger of trade war if everybody gets into an eye-for-an-eye policy," Nathaniel Samuels, deputy undersecretary of state for economic affairs, said in an interview.

The basic trouble, Samuels said, is an increase in protectionist sentiment all over the world. "The question is: Can we

Apparently Nixon Has Put Congressional Democrats in a Bind

BY FRANK CORMIER

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's newly-proclaimed policy of breaking out of the Washington "isolation booth" to mix with the people poses problems not only for his bodyguards but for Democratic politicians.

since June, Nixon has seemed bent on building an image as a president eager for contact with ordinary citizens.

As he phrased it then, fresh from a street-crowd triumph in St. Louis, he wanted to get away from the "intellectual incest" that afflicts members of Congress who talk only to each other.

Since most congressmen are Democrats, some observers decided that Nixon, without uttering a partisan word, had subtly suggested, "Throw the rascals out!"

In any event, the crowd-hopping, handshaking Nixon of recent weeks is showing a facet of his personality rarely evident since the 1968 campaign

He most recently exhibited the gregariousness when he signed autographs at Cincinnati's Riverfront Stadium during the major league All-Star game and paused to shake hands with by-standers at Louisville and downtown Cincinnati

The President's actions confront Secret Service bodyguards with additional problems when Nixon stands up in open cars, plunges into crowds, and clambers atop the hood of the famous bubbletop limousine. However, he is doing what presidents have always done.

Some people here believe that national disquiet occasioned by the intervention in Cambodia may have influenced the chief executive's change of style.

For whatever reason, Nixon appears embarked on a calculated course to visit selected cities where he can be reasonably assured of an enthusiastic reception.

Nixon promises he will be making himself seen in other parts of the country in the time just ahead—the weeks just prior to vital state and congressional elections

The President has staked out a course that would seem to offer him the best of two best worlds. He says he wants to mingle with the people. Yet he also has stated—only a month ago—that he could give best service to the Republican campaign this year by making a good record in Washington.

Nixon's moves up to now have been rather tentative but if all goes well from his standpoint, there probably will be more out-of-town visits between now and November.

Universal Service at 18 Suggested

By LEE BYRD

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON San Francisco State College President S.I. Hayakawa, characterizing the younger generation as bored and immature, has suggested both men and women be compelled to serve two or three years federal duty beginning at age 18 to curb campus unrest.

Hayakawa advanced the proposal Wednesday at the opening hearing of the President's Commission on Campus Unrest.

The no-nonsense administrator's comments contrasted with those of five other witnesses who declared the roots of dissent—and not the dissenters—required remedial action.

They warned the campus uproar will continue as long as the war does.

University of Michigan President Robben Fleming declared the commission should recommend first and foremost "an unwavering, completely credible, and rapidly implemented commitment to end the presence of our troops in Vietnam."

Fleming and others also touched upon other external problems which they said contribute to campus disorders such as the unnecessary use of police and National Guardsmen.

But Hayakawa, who noted he hasn't hestitated to call police onto his campus, disagreed with the others' views of student activists as sincere, well-informed and worthy of a greater role in society.

The get-tough administrator suggested two or three years in the "real world," would make young persons more likely to return to the campus with "a clear-cut purpose in mind.

"Students over 22, over 32, over 52 are almost always our best students," he said. "The young are bored. The bored student is social dynamite. Bright students...have been the principal troublemakers."

Commissioner Erwin D. Canham, editor-in-chief of Christian Science Monitor, drew a burst of applause from the gallery when he asked Hayakawa: "Whose fault is that—the students or their administrators?"

Hayakawa said it was the fault of the middle class for viewing college attendance as necessary.

Hayakawa also called for an immediate end to student draft deferments.

Cooler and Wet Is Forecast

Cooler temperatures and more rain are expected for the state Friday as a cold frontal zone drifts slowly southeastward tonight.

The front is expected to dissipate over southern Arkansas or northern Louisiana by early Friday.

Skies should begin clearing slowly from north to south across the state by tonight with showers restricted to the extreme southern section by Friday morning.

Rain that began falling across much of the state Wednesday night continued today with precipitation covering much of the central two-thirds of the state.

Widely scattered shower activities are reported in the extreme north and extreme south portions of the state.

Broadcast Technicians Keep Airwaves Alive

So You Want To Be...

By ERNIE HOOD

Broadcast technicians set up, operate and maintain the electronic equipment used to record or transmit radio and television programs. More than 20,000 are employed in the United States.

They work with microphones, sound recorders, lighting equipment, sound effects devices, television cameras, magnetic video tape recorders and motion picture projection equipment.

In the control room, broadcast technicians operate equipment that regulates the quality of sounds and pictures being recorded or broadcast. They also operate controls that switch broadcasts from one camera or studio to another, from film to live programing, or from network to local programs.

From the control room, they give technical directions to personnel in the studio by means of hand signals and, in television, by use of telephone headsets. When working on disc jockey programs, they sometimes operate phonograph record turntables. Other control technicians. Most technicians do at least occasional maintenance, but large stations usually have one or two experienced men whose chief duties are to repair and maintain electronic equipment under supervision of the chief engineer. In small radio stations, the chief engineer frequently does all maintenance and repair work himself.

A TECHNICIAN adjusts a television camera while preparing for coverage of an Apollo space flight.

When events taking place outside the studios are to be broadcast, technicians go to the site of the pickup and set up, test and operate the necessary equipment.

Most broadcast technicians work in communities of more than 250,000 population. The highest paying and most specialized jobs are concentrated in New York, Los Angeles, Washington, D.C., and Chicago, the originating centers for most of the network programs.

In addition to nonsupervisory technicians, several thousand supervisory personnel, such as chief engineer, assistant chief engineer, director of engineering, technical director and supervisory technician, work in engineering departments.

Those interested in becoming a broadcast technician should plan on getting a Radiotelephone First Class Operator License from the Federal Communications Commission. Federal law requires that anyone who operates or adjusts broadcast transmitters in television and radio stations must hold such a license. Some stations require all their broadcast technicians, including those who do not operate transmitters, to have this license.

Applicants for the license must pass a series of written examinations covering the construction and operation of transmission and receiving equipment, the characteristics of electromagnetic waves, and federal government and international regulations and practices governing broadcasting. Information about these examinations and guides to study for them may be obtained from the Federal Communications Commission, Washington, D.C. 20554.

High school courses in algebra, trigonometry, physics and other sciences provide valuable background. Building and operating an amateur radio station is also good training.

A college degree in engineering is becoming increasingly important for advancement to supervisory positions.

The number of broadcast technicians is expected to increase only slightly during the 1970s. Some job opportunities for technicians will be provided by the new radio and television stations expected to go on the air during this period.

Earnings of broadcast technicians vary greatly, depending on the size and location of the community a station serves, the size of the station, whether he works in a radio or television station and the experience of the individual.

As a rule, technicians' wages are highest in large cities and in large stations. Technicians employed by television stations usually are paid more than those working for radio stations because television equipment is generally more complex.

Conferences with high school and Employment Service counselors are suggested.

Reform in Congress' Votes Asked

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — After losing a fight to restrict secret committee sessions, supporters of congressional reform legislation hoped today to fare better in their fight to abolish the practice of nameless voting.

The reformers want each member's vote to be recorded publicly when the House acts on amendments to major bills. Existing rules permit a head count only and names are not recorded.

With the backing of influential House leaders, proponents of the proposal said chances for success are good.

The antisecrecy proposal was one of scores under consideration on a bulky congressional reorganization bill affecting both the House and the Senate.

The bill was laid aside temporarily today so the House could consider compromise versions of three other measures.

It may not be passed until next week.

Advocates of more far-reaching reforms than those provided in the pending measure won two battles Tuesday and lost one.

They lost on an amendment to require committee meetings to be open unless a panel decided against it publicly at each session. The vote, a nonrecord one, was 132 to 112.

An amendment to ban proxy voting in committees was approved 71-54 and a requirement that roll-call votes of individual members in committees be made available to the public was adopted by voice vote.

Oldest Grist Mill

The Linchester Mill near Preston, Md., is of historic interest in that it is the oldest grist mill in operation in the United States. It was a mere incident of its history to furnish flour to George Washington's army, for it was then over 100 years old, having been established in 1660. It has never been out of operation and functions as a business today.

YOUTH BEAT

THE NATIONAL REPORT ON WHAT'S HAPPENING

By ROGER DOUGHTY

GEETAR PICKER—One of the things that made The Guess Who one of the most tasteful groups on the scene during the past few years was the guitar work of Randy Bachman, who was also listed as leader of the group. Now Randy is on his own with a solo LP, Axe. Bachman may well turn out to be one of the giants when it comes to guitar picking, and he's a solid composer, too. For Axe he has written nine originals, all good. "Noah," a cut that runs 9:43, is a tour de force, but even in two minutes and 26 seconds (which is all Randy takes to play "Not to Return") the Bachman guitar sings. Fine record by a gifted young artist who is getting better and better.

Randy Bachman

AIR QUAKES—Disc jockeys have that nervous feeling again, what with word that the Internal Revenue Service, Big Daddy when it comes to loot, is checking into the payola situation again. Cost a lot of biggies their jobs the last time out and it could again. If you've been wondering how "that song" could ever get to be No. 1, you may soon find out. Could be some record companies have been supporting the DJs again.

SO LET IT BE, ALREADY—No promises, but this just might be the last "Let It Be" item we write (might not be, too). Anyway, one song on the album was written by the Beatles back in 1959 when they were known as the Quarrymen. If you can figure out which one it is, we'll give you something or other. First come, first rewarded and all that kind of thing

WOODSTOCK NOTION—Upstate New York, the scene of the legendary Woodstock Festival (which, as you know, wasn't at Woodstock at all) will be the site of a permanent youth arts center. The place is called Mountaindale and, it'll have rock fests, film fests, play fests and all kinds of other fests. There's room for campers, sidewalk cafes, boutiques and lots of other things. Among the luminaries set to appear there are Sly, Joe Cocker, Richie Havens, Delaney and Bonnie, Janis Joplin, Paul Butterfield, the Grateful Dead, Chicago, Jefferson Airplane, Mountain and John Sebastian.

DECAL DOINGS—Could be that the best thoughtful writing today is turning up on bumper stickers. You have to keep the thought brief and get your point across quickly. We've got our favorites, but we'd like to find out what yours are, too. Make 'em up if you want to. Just let us know your favorites and if we like 'em as much as you do we'll print your letter and send you a copy of that Randy Bachman LP we just got done raving about.

UNJAMMED—We're all out of Jam Factory posters, so stop writing in for them already. Gave away about 150, but that's it.

CONTEST STUFF—The NEA-Caravelle Project Take Time to Get Involved contest rolls along with tons of mail coming in from all over the place. Newest judge selected to help us pick the grand prize winner is the Rev. Tom Haggai, who spends most of his time talking to youth groups and helping people out in general. He joins actor Hugh O'Brian, who will take time off from his acting chores and the Hugh O'Brian Youth Foundation to help with the judging.

Van Brocklin Disappointed in NFL

ATLANTA (AP) — Norm Van Brocklin, one of the original player representatives in the National Football League, believes the NFL Players Association is not fulfilling the mission for which it was created.

"It was not to create a union or the image of a union," said Van Brocklin, coach and general manager of the Atlanta Falcons. He said the original intention was to "enhance communications between owners and players."

He said that he is "very disturbed" at the prospect of a pro football strike and the stand of the association.

Van Brocklin, who during his 12-year career as quarterback for the Los Angeles Rams and Philadelphia Eagles became the chief NFL player representative, said players are being "poorly informed" by the association.

"Knowing our players as I do," he said, "I cannot believe that they are unanimous in their support of every issue."

He said a strike could be a "tragedy" for all players, regardless of age.

Intrepid Top Boat in American Cup

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — There's no doubt that the California 12-meter yacht, Intrepid, is the top boat today in the America's Cup observation trials.

With Bill Ficker of Newport Beach, Calif., at the helm Intrepid made it eight in a row and four straight over Valiant by whipping the latter by two minutes, 36 seconds on Rhode Island Sound Wednesday.

The Valiant, skippered by Bill McCullough of Riverside, Conn., had been regarded as the best at her launching several months ago.

"We'd just like to show we can do as well as Bus Mosbacher and his crew did in 1967," Ficker said. In 1967, the Intrepid, then sailed by Mosbacher, retained the Cup for America in the famed yachting race.

The 6-foot-2, 41-year-old Ficker was asked if he could account for Intrepid's present superiority over Valiant.

"We seem to get in the groove a little easier than they do and we get speed up more quickly," the Californian replied.

Has Intrepid reached its maximum potential?

"Not by a long shot and neither has Valiant," Ficker retorted.

Valiant had a five-inch appendage removed from the bottom of her rudder Tuesday night, but it didn't make any difference.

No pairings were announced for today's races since the weather forecast called for foggy conditions that may force a postponement.

Colleges Put Up Price of Admission

By LINDA RUBEY
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The nation's colleges and universities report a phenomenal rise in insurance costs in the wake of student disorder and unrest.

Even schools that have not experienced student turmoil say they are no longer getting the preferred rates they once enjoyed for property insurance and damage from fire and vandalism. Many schools are covered by blanket policies which lump these categories together.

"My complaint is that insurance companies are not looking at the universities individually. They are setting higher rates for everybody to make up loses for a few," says John Beumer, business manager at Xavier University, a Jesuit school in Ohio. Although it has not been hit by student violence, Beumer says Xavier's insurance rate increased by 33 per cent this year.

W. M. Carr, insurance manager at Pennsylvania State University, estimates that for many schools insurance costs now account for almost 1 per cent of their budgets. He adds that Penn State's insurance costs have risen 42 per cent since November 1969.

Other university officials report that along with a general boost in insurance rates has come a doubling of deductibles for fire and vandalism. A deductible means that the insurance company pays for any damages above a specified amount. For example, under a $5,000 deductible for fire, the insurance company would pay for any damages over $5,000.

Insurance companies, however, take a different point of view.

The predictability has gone out of college insurance. It's kind of like selling a man a homeowners policy when you realize he's going to start making dynamite in his basement," says Donald H. Garlock, senior vice president at Insurance Company of North America — which insures 300 colleges and universities.

While rates differ from campus to campus, an Associated Press sampling turned up these examples of rising insurance costs:

Columbia University reports its fire insurance cost jumped from $117,000 a year with a $1,000 deductible in 1969 to $150,000 with a $100,000 deductible in 1970.

The University of California reports its premium went from $200,000 for three years to $343,000 for one year and its deductible from $250,000 to $1 million.

Penn-Central Asks Cash for Trains

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Penn Central Railroad told a federal judge today that if it doesn't get about $50 million by the end of the year, it will have to discontinue the operation of trains which are losing money.

America's biggest railroad which filed a petition for reorganization under federal bankruptcy laws on June 21 said it needs permission to sell $50 million in trustee certificates to raise the necessary cash.

It asked U.S. District Court Judge John P. Fullam for a 15-day delay in the reorganization proceedings, which began Wednesday. The judge granted the request, pending appointment of trustees to run the railroad.

Jonathan O'Herron, Penn Central's executive vice president for finance, testified that the railroad had $53.6 million in cash at the end of the day Tuesday compared with $49.6 million at the close of business in June.

O'Herron said that the trust certificates would be sold as a first lien on Penn Central property, thus they must be paid off first before any other debts.

The New Haven Railroad which the Penn Central acquired at the end of 1968 under the merger of the Pennsylvania and New York Central asked the judge to exclude its assets —which it estimated at $2.06 billion—from being bound by the trust certificates.

10-Million-Acre Grant to Eskimoes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has passed a bill giving Alaskan natives 10 million acres of land and $1 billion—the biggest land claims payment in history.

The bill, facing an uncertain fate in the House, calls for the payment to be distributed among descendants of the wandering hunters and fishermen who originally settled the harsh land.

The Senate adopted the measure 76 to 8 Wednesday after inserting an amendment to provide for competitive bidding for mineral rights on all federal lands in Alaska.

Interior Secretary Walter J. Hickel, former governor of the state, said, "For Alaskans and for millions of Americans throughout the 50 states who have been frustrated over the years in trying to do something positive, progressive and fair for America's first citizens, this should be considered a great victory."

The bill set up corporations to handle the $1 billion for housing, education, welfare investment and other uses for the state's 55,000 Eskimos, Aleuts and Indians.

The amendment requiring competitive leasing for mineral rights was offered by Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., who said it was needed to prevent large giveaways of Alaska oil to large oil companies and speculators.

The amendment had been stricken in committee.

Women May Supervise Parolees

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—James Garrett, acting director of Pardons and Paroles, says the possibility of asking Arkansas housewives to act as volunteer parole officers is under consideration.

The plan would be a stop-gap move to improve the parole system.

"Arkansas has the lowest number of parole officers in the nation," Garrett said, "It's going to take money to get more. Without money, a volunteer program may be the next best thing."

Garrett says he knows of no other state that employes a statewide volunteer parole officer program.

His statement came prior to the start of a legislative inquiry into the entire pardon and parole system in Arkansas.

Rep. Roscoe Brown of Jonesboro called for the inquiry in a resolution which said that too many inmates are released too soon and quickly commit new crimes.

Garrett said if the volunteer system is inacted the participants would work with no more than three prisoners each.

"We think it would work better for females than males," Garrett said.

But he said that the invitation to help would be extended to anyone who can qualify.

Garrett said that if the state Parole Board approves of the idea, about 400 volunteers would be requested to work with paroled inmates.

RETIRES ON

we do juvenile delinquents."

Mrs. Coulter cited permissiveness and overindulgence as parental delinquency — believing little Johnny or Mary is always right.

For instance, the principal reasons that if a child plays hooky, the parents should find out the cause and do something about it. "But some parents say they gave permission for their children to skip school and let them get off the easy way," Mrs. Coulter said.

"I believe 90 per cent of riots are caused by spoiled brats," she said. "Everything was handed out to them on a silver platter. Parents rejected them and now the kids are fighting back."

From talks with boys about meaningless destructive acts sometimes caused by oung people, Mrs. Coulter has concluded: "Most of it is just to spite the old folks."

The retiring educator recognizes the "right to revolt, but not a right to tear up a school and keep some other student from getting an education."

Also Mrs. Coulter has been the only school counselor.

"Problems aren't really different today, but there are more of them maybe," she said. "The difference is that 20 years ago students didn't have their own cars, didn't go as much and didn't see as much as students today."

On what makes a good teacher, Mrs. Coulter says first there has to be the desire to teach. "A lot of people are just teaching because they can't do anything else," she lamented.

Second in importance is being prepared in one's special field. "You can't fool students," she said. "They know who knows a subject and who doesn't."

Third is understanding students and encouraging them to do their best.

The teacher also advocates knowledge in many fields. "You can't live in this world today without keeping up with what is going on politically," she said. "Teachers need to keep abreast of the times."

4 Congress Seats to Be Retained

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Preliminary population figures show that Arkansas will apparently retain its four congressional seats even though the state's population has not increased as fast as the rest of the nation.

Based on a Census Bureau estate, the congressional seats will be apportioned on the basis of one for every 471,000 persons.

The 435 seats in the House of Representatives are redistributed among the 50 states every 10 years on the basis of population. Arkansas has had four seats since 1960, when the number reduced from six because of a sharp decline in population in the state.

Cambodians Move Up on Mountain

By T. JEFF WILLIAMS
Associated Press Writer

PHNOM PENH (AP) — Four Cambodian army battalions moved into position south of the Kiri Rom plateau today, preparing for a drive on the mountain resort 50 miles west of Phnom Penh. There was speculation that most of the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese had pulled back into the jungle.

Two battalions were poised on the southern edge of the 2,000-foot-high playland. They reported taking enemy rifle fire but said they had not been hit by mortars.

Two more battalions that were badly mauled Tuesday had regrouped and were again moving toward the plateau.

Officers on the scene said they believed the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops who overran the resort five days ago had largely disappeared.

The Cambodian command also appeared to believe the end of the battle was near. It called back a force of 1,400 mercenaries that had been sent up the east flank of the plateau and had made no contact with the enemy. They were three miles from the main resort area when recalled.

The mercenaries are Cambodians from South Vietnam's Mekong Delta who were recruited and trained by the U.S. Special Forces for the war in Vietnam. There was some speculation among the strike forces that the Cambodian army wanted sole credit for retaking the plateau after the humiliation of being driven from it.

Indications were that more than 200 Cambodian troops were killed, wounded or missing. Total enemy losses were not known.

Kiri Rom area has no apparent military value. The aim of the enemy appeared to be to knock out as many government units as it could, then pull out when the government force got too big.

Elsewhere in Cambodia, North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops for the second time this week attacked the military depot at Long Vek, 35 miles north of Phnom Penh, but failed to push into the base, the military spokesman said. He said at least two Cambodian soldiers were killed. South Vietnamese AC47 gunships made two raids in the area during the night.

P.B. School Plan Is Approved

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — U.S. District Judge Oren Harris approved Wednesday a school desegregation plan submitted by the Pine Bluff school board, but specified that two modifications must be made.

The district submitted the plan June 25 after Harris rejected another plan offered in May. The new plan is basically the same one the board approved in January but rescinded in May.

The judge said the January proposal "would with certain modifications" provide the most feasible plan of operation on a unitary basis.

Harris ordered the district to modify the geographic attendance area for Oak Park Elementary School so that more Negro students would be assigned there. He made a similar ruling regarding Forrest Park and Southwood Elementary schools.

Other portions of the plan approved by Harris will implement the following at the beginning of the 1970-71 school year:

—Discontinuance of freedom of choice in assignment of students.

—Change the bus routes so that students are assigned to buses on the basis of their residence along the route without regard to race or color.

—Assignment of teachers so that every staff will have at least 20 per cent and not more than 50 per cent blacks.

—Assignment of students in grades 10-12 to Pine Bluff High School; students in grades 7-9 to one of four junior high schools; students in grades 5-6 to one of four elementary schools based on geographic attendance area; and students in grades 1-4 to one of nine other elementary schools, also based on geographic attendance area.
